Issue # 16 Vol. 3 November 12-13, 2016 33rd Sunday in Ordinary Time (C)

SPEAKING WELL OF OTHERS

Jesus is reminding us today that amid life's difficulties and storms, we have a mission. Our mission is to "give testimony," to spread the Good News of Christ's Kingdom, to help other people find and grow in Christ's friendship.

We can carry out that mission in many ways.

One concrete way is by speaking well of others.

- Jesus taught us that his true followers should love their neighbor as themselves.
- There is nothing more painful to us than when other people speak badly about us behind our backs.
- Even when the criticism is true, it hurts. Because we know that although we have faults, we also have good points, and even our faults we are trying to overcome.
 - So when other people focus on the bad, or, even worse, exaggerate or lie in order to make us look bad, the wound goes deep. But even so, almost every day we are tempted to do the same thing to others.
 - Criticizing others behind their back, whether with true criticisms (detraction) or lies (calumny), gives us a sense of power: when we put someone else down, we feel lifted up.
- But that kind of power is not Christian, it's diabolical. And in the end, it poisons both other people's minds, and also our own hearts.

But when we focus our attention on other people's good points, and speak well of them, we become true ambassadors of Christ, whose mercy and goodness was strong enough to unite what the devil had divided. In a few minutes, when we receive Jesus in Holy Communion, let's promise that this week we will use all of life's situations, the pleasant and the painful, as chances to "give testimony" and win others into his friendship.

"Cultivate the habit of speaking well of others. When tempted to complain of what someone has said or done, praise something in that person's life or character."

-Mastery of Healing, p. 492

A healthy mind does not speak ill of others.
