BEING CHRIST FOR OTHERS

The Eucharist is divine food that Christ gives us to make us more like him. In life's hustle and bustle, we can easily forget how wonderful this sacrament really is.

Today, let's renew our sense of awe and gratitude in the face of such an indescribable, miraculous gift. But we shouldn't stop there.

We all know that people who eat well but don't exercise soon get flabby and out of shape. The same thing can happen to us in our spiritual lives. Each week we receive this divine food, we pray, we hear the Word of God - we take in a lot of spiritual calories. But if we don't put them to work, our souls will get flabby, self-centered and self-absorbed.

For Christ's grace to make us more like him, we need to make an effort to live just as Christ lived. And that means giving ourselves to others, just as he gives himself to us. We all know people who are suffering, confused, or in trouble.

This week, strengthened by our holy food, let's be Christ's messengers to them. We can find no greater joy in life than to spread to others the love we have received from Christ. Jesus himself said this, as St Paul tells us in the Book of Acts: "There is more happiness in giving than receiving" (Acts 20:35). Today, Jesus will give himself to us once again in Holy Communion. When he does, let's thank him for this tremendous gift, and let's promise that this week, at least this week, we will follow in his footsteps. (E-priest.com)
